

Introducing an International Sensation!

Our bold additions to Selection International wines are made with Crushed Grape Skins.

The addition of a grapeskin pack to our premium Selection International enhances not only the body, mouth-feel, tannin and colour of the wine, it does so without increasing the need for extra ageing. These wines drink very well soon after bottling, and will improve on the same scale as regular Selection International: 6-12 months to achieve a high peak of flavour, and improvement for several years under good cellaring. You can choose a style of wine that appeals to you most, and explore other regional styles to fill your cellar.

Chilean Malbec-Shiraz with Grapeskins

Selection International Grapeskins Chilean Malbec-Shiraz displays a balance between ripeness and power, with intensely rich Shiraz grapes for a bold ruby purple colour, deep, dark plum and blackberry aromas showing subtle accents of chocolate. Malbec brings plum, blackcurrant and violet aromas leading to a slight touch of leather notes. Full-bodied and classically, the gripping tannins linger to an elegant finish of toasty oak and spice. Serve with roasted meats, rich stews, or try it with bittersweet chocolate—this wine can stand up, or stand alone, and will age gorgeously.

Spanish Tempranillo with Grapeskins

Selection International Grapeskins Spanish Tempranillo shows the black cherry, raspberry, plum and tobacco notes of the varietal, but the wine tends towards lushness and an overflowing of soft, ripe tannins, rather than bright fruit. Vanilla and spice notes in the oak give way to a beguiling hint of dark coffee on the finish. Medium-to-full bodied, it will drink well under three months, and will soften impressively after six months to a year in the bottle. Serve with tapas, like grilled chorizo, rich tomato dishes like Moussaka or even grilled sardines.
